THE SYDNEY MORNING HERALD, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1907.

A PAGE FOR WOMEN

NOTICES

The "Herald's" Page for Women is published on Wednesdays. Communications should be addressed to "The Editor, A Page for Women, Herald Office."

Contributions should be forwarded, will be considered. They should be not exceed half a column in length.

WOMEN LIBRARIANS.

"I am just the person you want," will say any number of dear middle-aged ladies immediately when a young man appears in a position for women. "I love books." Their love for books probably means that they have read everything by Marie Corelli. In any case, a love of books avails nothing when librarians' positions are to be sought. A good all-round education is essential, and also a knowledge of two languages besides English.

GIRL GRADUATES.

Although degrees will not be conferred until April 27 upon those who have just passed the B.A. examinations, still most of those who want teaching engagements have already obtained them, or have tried to.

Only three new graduates have applied to the chief registry in the city, which is usually rushed at this time, for appointments. One of these has gone to Queensland, and the other has taken up work in a private family. As a rule, nearly every graduate who wishes to start on a career takes up teaching. There seems to be little else for her to do. So far only one graduate has taken up typewriting. Library appointments are popular, but there is great competition for them, as they are so few.

The reduced number of graduates applying for teaching positions either means that highly-educated girls have found more congenial ways of earning money, or that more girls are taking up study for pure love of it, and not through a wish to become self-supporting. The latter hypothesis is true as far as students at the Women's College are concerned.

PROGRESSIVE PROPOSALS.

The Lady Mayoress has hit upon a pretty idea in connection with the flowers that bloom in the parks now under municipal control. Instead of using them solely for the adornment of her own and the Lord Mayor's rooms in the Town Hall, Mrs. Hughes has suggested that they be taken to the wards of various hospitals in and around Sydney. The flowers belong to the public, but no one would object to having them picked for this purpose. Besides, it does rose trees and other bushes good for the full-blown blossoms to be picked off.

An instructive article re the recent opening of a Domestic Institute at Copenhagen has been forwarded in the "Monthly Record" of the Women's Liberal League by Mrs. Marcher, the Danish Countess's wife. The Danes are indeed up-to-date. All the modern ideas are here put to a practical test. There are 18 resident pupils, all under 35 years, divided into three divisions—the housemaid, kitchen and laundry workers. They exchange work every week. The course is six months. There is

DRESSES FOR ELDERLY WOMEN.

OPEN VIEWS.

When will the average person (a title that no one is ever in a hurry to lay claim to) come to recognize that go-betweeners are a great mistake? If a favour has to be asked of someone, it is far better to ask directly of the someone than to ask someone else to ask. If an inquiry by letter must be made, it saves a great deal of time to write to the person who can give the information, instead of writing and asking someone else to write and ask. To many people this safe and simple plan never seems to occur. They give their friends messages (which always get more or less bungled) to deliver, and books to carry to each other, instead of adopting a direct route. Then there are the people who don't understand how to "work" their purchases such as filters and planolins. Instead of going to the shop, they want you to go and "see;" they're all upon the list; they never would be missed.

In the future the noblest of all human beings of Professor McGee, who

Improvement of Digital Content by Users

On 25 July 2008 the Australian Newspapers Beta service was launched to the public. A strong community of users has developed. Users have corrected over 2 million lines of electronic text in over 100,000 articles. Over 46,000 tags have been added to articles and many comments about information in articles added. This is fantastic community activity which is improving the content for everyone.

1.8 million pages scanned

1.8 million pages have been scanned from microfilm. A list of the titles and date ranges scanned is available from the Selected Newspapers page.

Articles full text searchable

About the program

The National Library of Australia, in collaboration the Australian State and Territory libraries, has commenced a program to digitise out of copyright newspapers.

We are creating a free online service that will enable full-text searching of newspaper articles. This will include newspapers published in each state and territory from the 1800s to the mid-1950s, when copyright applies. The first Australian newspaper, published in Sydney in 1803, is included in the Program.

Objectives

- Increase access to Australian newspapers
- Build a national service that will provide free online access from the first Australian newspaper published in 1803 through to the end of 1954
- Key Features of the service
 - Online access
 - Freely available
 - Full text searchable

National Program and Content

- Initial focus on major titles from each state and territory
- 'Regional' titles being contributed by libraries 2010 onwards
- Coverage: published between 1803 – 1954 (out of copyright)

Prototype/Beta

What we can learn from Gmail.

For years after its initial release (remember when you had to be invited?), Gmail was in "beta", or the software equivalent of "previews". Only recently did Google strip the beta moniker from its logo on Gmail, Calendar and a lot of its other products.

Could a consumer have told the difference over the last 5 years?

Not likely. Beta was just Google's way of protecting itself, yes, but also its way of saying, "We are committed to changes on a daily basis until we make our product better, and then we'll figure out even more stuff to change until we can better it still."

Not a bad way to think about any product, don't you think?

I heard a Web Marketing Guru speak about how to design a website, and he said that websites are never final; great websites are in a state of perpetual beta.

Text Correction Activity

“Who are the text correctors?”

OF AUSTRALIA

Flickr: LucLeqay

one search...a wealth of information

Why correct text?

1. Australian history - Helping to provide accurate record (sometimes linked to local history research)
2. Family Names - Doing family history and help others with names as they go by correcting
3. Useful cause and want to help Australian community/Library/themselves

Comments from text correctors

- I love it
- It's interesting and fun
- It is a worthy cause
- It's addictive
- I am helping with something important e.g. recording history, finding new things
- I want to do some voluntary work
- I want to help non-profit making organisations like libraries
- I want to learn something
- It's a challenge
- I want to give something back to the community
- You trust me to do it so I'll do it

Motivating factors

- Pleasure
- Short and long term goals
- Concentrating on outcomes
- Trust and Respect given
- The challenge

Maintaining motivation

- Detailed instructions - If you want a specific result, give us specific instructions. We will work better when we know exactly what's expected.
- Team Spirit - Create an online environment of camaraderie. We'll work more effectively when we feel like part of team or virtual community. We don't want to let others down.
- Recognize achievement - Make a point to recognize achievements one-on-one and also in group settings. We like to think we are being noticed and are making a difference. Show us how we fit into the big picture.
- Raising the bar – The more we do the more you should expect us to do. We'll do a lot more if you give us a lot more content. That would be our highest motivational factor.

AUSTRALIAN NEWSPAPERS DIGITISATION PROGRAM TEXT-CORRECTORS HALL OF FAME

Automatically extracting text from scans of old newspapers is extremely challenging. Although this project is using the best available Optical Character Recognition (OCR) software, the condition of the images it has to process combined with the frequently small fonts used means that many errors of interpretation are made.

A degree of strategem was ne- cessary to obtain an entrance, and he procured it by representing that he had a daughter he was anxious to place under the care of his wife. On going in he found him in the parlour with four ladies at break- fast. He was in his dressing gown, and had a watch before him, by which he was minuting the boiling of some eggs. Len called him on one side, and told him that he was a London Police Officer, and had to apprehend him on a most serious charge. He seemed somewhat alarmed, and at his request, they retired into the drawing-room; but on his being made ac- quainted with the nature of the offence, he denied all knowledge of it, as also of his unfortunate victim Len, after having secured him, proceded to search both his person and drawers, and discovered a num- ber of letters from a person named Gardener, in which warnings were held out and cautions given, of a singular description. He also found a case of detonating pocket pistols, maker's name Harcourt, Ipswich, supposed to have been purchased on the day of the murder, together with a powder flaks,

Crowdsourcing

Web 2.0 = Social engagement on the internet

Interactions with data and other users:

- Helps users to help themselves

Crowdsourcing

- Many people working together to achieve a big goal via web 2.0 features. Result usually for common good and will benefit many.

A book to read: Clay Shirky 'Here comes everybody'.

The power

"Don't under estimate the power of people who join together.... they can accomplish amazing things,"

Barack Obama 19 Jan 2009 Speaking on community engagement and involvement and voluntary work

Rose says:

People want to work together to achieve amazing things – we as librarians have the power to give them both the data and tools to do this - they will do the rest.....

Community has:

1. Enthusiasm

2. Knowledge

3. Time

Benefits for libraries

1. Achieving goals that the library does not have resource for
2. Improving/adding value to your resource/service
3. Active engagement with the community
4. Utilising knowledge of community

Benefits

5. Encouraging sense of public ownership and responsibility towards cultural heritage items
6. Building trust and loyalty of the community
7. Demonstrating relevance and value of libraries

Power vs Freedom

“Freedom is actually a bigger game than power.
Power is about what you can control.
Freedom is about what you can unleash.”

Harriet Rubin

Changing role for librarians and users.....

What Do Librarians Need to Consider?

- The importance of collaboration for digitisation, storage, service delivery, crowdsourcing. “Gravity”
- Building social engagement into our digital interactions – tools.
- What we want crowdsourcing help with?
- Why we want the help: improve quality, social engagement, add new content?

What Do Librarians Need to Consider?

- Ensure we work with open standards for data sharing e.g. OAI
- Possibilities of data exchange with API's
- Making our data discoverable via Google and Wikipedia
- Changing institutional strategic thinking from power/control to freedom

The site you manage is a nightmare!

It's addictive.

Keeps me awake at night.

Congratulations!
