Promoting Open Access is the best way for research communities to regain full control over their communication channels, including the evaluation of research quality.

Jean Claude Guédon

To find new ways of increasing access is to extend an invitation and to acknowledge a right, for scholarship exists only as it is shared and circulated.

I risultati delle ricerche finanziate con i fondi pubblici devono essere pubblicamente disponibili.

What matters is not the particular form that Open Access takes, but its adherence to this principle of increasing and improving access, impact, participation, and circulation.

La conoscenza è un bene comune.
