- Not anonymous, anchored to our real identity
- Presentation of hoped-for possible self (Zhao)
- Shiny happy communication mode :-)

Like
- Totalitarian need for positive image of self (Leary)

Hoped-for possible self

- Thoughtful
- Well-rounded
- Popular among friends

Stretching the truth
a bit...

We present our gorgeous selves...

- Indirectly
- Visually
- By fragments of narratives
- By our network

Rather show than tell

Narrative fragments of selfpresentation

- We are the story tellers of our lives
- We try our best to catch our audience
- The audience is capable of interpretation and gap leaping
- We aim our message on those who understand

By Culpeo Fox 2010

Our network present ourselves

- Connections are manifest
- Size of our networks matters
- Structure of our network matters
- People in our network matter

Who is the target audience?
