HAROLD S. KAPLAN Fonds Resursă electronică]

Biografie : Harold Solomon Kaplan (1895-1973) was a Toronto-based architect who, in partnership with Abraham Sprachman in the firm Kaplan & Sprachman, was well known for the design of Art deco and modern Art movie theatres in the 1930s and 1940s and for designing buildings for Jewish communities across Canada from the 1930s to the 1960s. Kaplan was born 10 Sept. 1895, in Bucharest, Romania. At the age of three, he and his widowed mother, Tillie Hohan, moved to London, England, and in 1902 they moved to Toronto where his mother subsequently married Frank Kaplan. While in his teens, Kaplan spent time in Philadelphia living with an uncle and studying draftsmanship. Upon returning to Toronto, Kaplan attended Toronto Technical School where he took courses in architecture and building construction. He also served an apprenticeship with the architect Henry Simpson. In 1919-1920, Kaplan worked for the firm of Page & Warrington, before establishing Kaplan & Sprachman with Abraham Sprachman in 1922. In 1923, he married Dorothy Spain. They had two daughters, Phyllis (Pepper) and Ruthetta (Reiss). Kaplan & Sprachman were best known for their more than 300 movie theatre projects completed from the 1920s to the 1960s, designing and renovating theatres across Canada in progressive "modern" styles and using innovative building materials. In 1937, they were awarded the bronze medal in the Sixth Biennial Toronto Exhibition for their interiors to the Eglinton Theatre (400 Eglinton Ave. W.) in Toronto, considered to be the finest example of their Art deco design work. Over the course of their careers, they designed many synagogues for the Jewish community, such as the Anshei Minsk and Shaarei Shomayim synagogues in Toronto, Beth Israel Synagogue, Edmonton, and Beth Israel Synagogue in Vancouver. They also designed the new Mount Sinai Hospital, the Oakdale Golf & Country Club, the Jewish Home for the Aged (Baycrest), and the Jewish Community Centres of Toronto and Hamilton. Their design for the Oakdale Golf &

Country Club was chosen as a Canadian entrant in the Arts Competition of the 14th Olympic Games in London, 1948. In addition to the projects already mentioned, Kaplan & Sprachman worked on retail stores, warehouses and factories, apartment buildings, and single family residences. Their partnership continued until 1965, when the firm of Kaplan & Sprachman was dissolved as of 30 October 1965. Kaplan continued to work as an architectural consultant for several years after this date. Harold Kaplan died 1 April 1973 in West Palm Beach; Florida. Kaplan was a member of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, the Ontario Association of Architects, and the Province of Quebec Association of Architects. Kaplan & Sprachman's contribution to the architecture profession was recognized by the Ontario Association of Architects when both Kaplan's and Abraham Sprachman's names were entered on the Honor Roll for prominent members of the profession, established by the association in 1989.

JOE ROSENTHAL Fonds [Resursă electronică]

Biografie : Joe Rosenthal was born in Kishinev, Romania in 1921. He grew up and studied art in Toronto at the Central Technical School (1935-1940). At the age of twenty he won first prize for a war poster which was one of five hundred submitted by four-hundred and twenty-five Canadian artists to a nation-wide competition sponsored by the Art Gallery of Toronto. He joined the army in 1942 and again won a first prize in the Canadian Army Art Exhibition of 1943. After the war he continued art studies at the Ontario College of Art (1946 to 1947). He became a commercial illustrator, printmaker, painter and sculptor. Drawings he produced in 1965 of the old Toronto Kensington Market were reproduced in Adele Wiseman's book "Old Markets, New World" (1965). Drawings produced in 1969 during visits to native communities across Canada were reproduced in his book "Indians, a Sketching Odyssey" (1971), and were the focus of a 1971 show. In 1971 the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education produced a portfolio of fifty of the drawings entitled "As the Artist Sees It". The Wellings Mint involved him in a 1972 project to reproduce some of his works, known as the "Children of Mankind Series." He became an Associate Member of the Royal Canadian Academy in 1978 and a Member in 1979. The artist is credited with over fourteen one-man shows in Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa and is represented in both international and national collections including the National Gallery of Canada, and the Canadian War Museum. He is also a member of the Ontario Society of Artists and the Print and Drawing Council of Canada.

Conținut : Some of his better-known achievements are represented in the 1999 accession. They include 1965 drawings and paintings of the old Toronto Kensington Market, some of which were used to illustrate Adele Wiseman's book "Old Markets, New World" (1965). A Canada Council grant enabled the artist to travel across Canada in 1969 and produce sketches in native communities in Big Trout, Ontario, Ahousat and Williams Lake, British Columbia, Gleichen and Calgary, Alberta, Colville Lake and Fort Good Hope, Northwest Territories, Cardston and Chief Smallboy, Alberta, and Thunderchild, Saskatchewan. In 1971 some of the sketches were reproduced in Joe Rosenthal's book "Indians, a Sketching Odyssey", and some were also the focus of a show. In 1971 the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education produced a portfolio of 50 of the drawings entitled "As the Artist Sees It". The Wellings Mint negotiated the use of the medallions designed after the sketches, although they were never published. Photographs, and textual records in the accession relate to his trip to native communities. The draft typescript for his book documents the development of the text. There are letters both incoming and carbons of outgoing relating to arrangements made to visit native communities. Letters from other visitors to the communities are part of the accession, such as one from Father Bernard Brown at Our Lady of the Snows Mission at Colville Lake, Northwest Territories. Other letters relate to two separate sketching trips, one to France and Italy in 1965 and one to Quebec in 1967. These letters contain amusing anecdotes and insights into the artist's personality and political views. Father Bernard Brown at Our Lady of the Snows Mission at Colville Lake, Northwest Territories. Biografie : Shmuel Nathanson, the maternal great grandfather of donor Merle Kastner, was born in 1863 in Piatra Neamt, in the Moldavia province of Romania. He came to Canada with his wife Basie and five children in June, 1901, stopping briefly in Sydney, Nova Scotia, where S.L. left his family and travelled to Montreal, to set up his grocery business. SPANER FAMILY FONDS [Resursă electronică]

Biografie : Jack Spaner was born outside of Jossy, Romania, circa 1884. He was one of four brothers who walked out of Bessarabia. Jack left in 1897 to escape pogroms, anti-Semitism and conscription, traveling by foot on established escape paths, shepherded by Jewish organizations. Jack reached England at the age of 13 or 14. He sold faggots (kindling wood) and eyeglasses. The Jewish organization ORT sent him to a training school for tailors in Ireland. Jack's brother Harry was a tailor in Kenora, Ontario and possibly paid Jack's transportation. From Kenora the brothers migrated west, stopping in Winnipeg, before settling in Edmonton, and later Edson. They were attracted by the fur trade: Jack traveled extensively through Indian villages north of Edson buying spring bundles and competing with the Hudson's Bay Company. The brothers all married. Harry, the oldest, moved to Vancouver, Isaac to Prince George, where he opened a men swear store, and Louis back to Winnipeg and later to Vancouver when he opened a grocery store. Esther, the only sister, married a Hoffman and went to St. Paul, Minnesota. Jack's parents, Wolfe and Esther Spaner were brought to Canada; they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1924. They are buried in Winnipeg. Around 1913, Jack moved to Chicago, where he met his wife Doris Shapiro. Jack and Doris had two children in Edson, Tyrall and Sydney. In 1920, son Bernard was born in Grande Prairie. The family moved to Edmonton for their children's education where Jack opened a trading and retail store. In 1933 Jack returned to Grande Prairie. Jack died in Edmonton in 1945. He was well regarded by his Native trading partners, who he outfitted. Brothers Bernard (Bud), Sid and Allan are the sons of (Jacob) and Dora Spaner, married in 1911.
