Note: Forms part of a series of articles published in nineteen eighties in regional (Kerala) newspapers of local language (Malayalam). At that time there was no library legislation in Kerala. Various attempts during 1960- 1985 for enacting a Kerala Public Library act failed due to conflicting interests. Enacting library legislation was also not considered by politicians as an important achievement that can mint votes. There were also signs of the library movements in some regions like Kerala taking wrong direction. In such a situation the articles in this series attempted to raise public opinion in favor of establishing an efficient library and information system for the people. The articles also projected library legislation as one among social legislations for which priority is to be given by government. Later Kerala Public Library Act 1989 came into existence. But still 19 years after its publication of these articles many of the suggestions made are relevant for further amendments to Kerala Public Libraries Act 1989.
